

---

Anthony Giampolo, MD, MBA, AGSF, DAAPM, ABPN, NBPAS is a consultant to the life sciences industry. Dr. Giampolo has contributed to drug development projects leading to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (U.S. FDA) approvals of several compounds for various neurological and neuroscience therapeutic indications. Dr. Giampolo earned his magna cum laude Bachelor of Science degree in Biological Sciences and his Medical Doctor (MD) degree from the University of Pittsburgh, and his summa cum laude Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree from California Coast University. He completed his Neurology Residency and Fellowship in Electromyography and Neuromuscular Diseases also at the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Giampolo has experience working in a range of capacities including clinical development, medical affairs, drug safety, and new business development with global pharmaceutical companies and clinical contract research organizations (CROs). He has 30 years of clinical practice experience in both community and academic settings, and more than 20 years of experience as a medical consultant for strategic and logistic operations in the medical service industry. Dr. Giampolo offers a unique blend of superior communication skills and extensive experience in collaborating with business, marketing, research, and clinical professionals of varied backgrounds. He utilizes adaptive expertise, creative problem-solving, and an up-to-date comprehensive medical knowledge base. Dr. Giampolo is board certified in Neurology with added qualifications in Clinical Neurophysiology by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology (ABPN) and the National Board of Physicians and Surgeons (NBPAS). He is also certified in Pain Management by and a Diplomate of the Academy of Integrative Pain Management.