

---

Lynda Szczech, MD is a nephrologist with over 25 years of clinical and research experience. In addition, she has with more than 160 peer-reviewed publications, having studied many of the issues involved with anemia and cardiovascular disease as complications of chronic kidney disease (CKD) and issues with public policy and decision making related to end stage kidney disease (ESKD). In addition to serving on the ASN's Public Policy Board as well as Communications Committee, Dr. Szczech was the Chair of the Dialysis Advisory Group for the ASN as well as the President of the National Kidney Foundation.

Dr. Szczech has experience in academic research at the Duke Clinical Research Institute as well as almost 10 years of experience in industry and biotech. She has overseen the conduct of trials, lead pharmacovigilance groups and event adjudication, coordinated and participated in data safety monitoring boards, and developed Medical Affairs strategies.

Dr. Szczech received her MD from Jefferson Medical College and trained in Medicine and Nephrology at Duke University and the University of Pennsylvania where she also received a Master's Degree in Epidemiology and Biostatistics.